2024 ANNUAL REPORT

DIDI
HIRSCH

WHO WE ARE

Didi Hirsch is a leading provider of mental health, substance use, and suicide prevention services, and is home to the first and most comprehensive suicide prevention center in the nation.

MISSION

Didi Hirsch provides compassionate mental health, substance use, and suicide prevention services to individuals and families, especially in communities where discrimination and injustice limit access.

VISION

A future where everyone has equitable access to care and is empowered to achieve optimal health and well-being.

HISTORY

Didi Hirsch Mental Health Services was the first community-based adult outpatient clinic in Los Angeles and one of the original agencies to be federally designated as a Community Mental Health Center. Started by volunteers, the agency had one site and a budget of $5,000 when it was incorporated in 1942. Today, we are a leading provider of mental health, substance use and suicide prevention services, serving more than 270,000 people annually.

A MESSAGE FROM OUR CEO AND CO-CHAIRS OF THE BOARD

Advancing Equity in Mental Health

At Didi Hirsch, we believe everyone deserves compassionate care that honors their full humanity. For more than 80 years, we’ve worked to expand access to mental health, substance use, and suicide prevention services—especially in communities where systems of injustice have historically limited access to care.

In 2024, we deepened our impact and extended our reach to more individuals and families than ever before. Didi Hirsch served more than 270,000 people across our comprehensive programs—another milestone year that underscores the growing need for accessible, client-centered mental health care.

As the landscape of behavioral health continues to evolve, so does our commitment to innovation and responsiveness. Here’s how that commitment translated into impact:

Standing Strong in Crisis: Wildfire Recovery Support

When devastating wildfires swept through our region in early 2025, we mobilized quickly to meet both immediate and long-term needs of those impacted by the fires. In the first four months of the recovery effort, our teams have supported more than 4,000 people—offering trauma-informed therapy, onsite crisis response, virtual support for first responders, and critical care through the 988 Suicide & Crisis Lifeline.

Deepening Our Commitment to Youth Mental Health

We continued to invest in youth-centered mental health services, including crisis intervention, school and community outreach, and access to care. From expanding our Teen Line volunteer training programs and increasing suicide prevention outreach in schools, to welcoming more young people at Our Third Place, our commitment to building trust and connection with youth has never been stronger.

Meeting the Growing Demand for 988

As more people in crisis take the brave step to reach out, we’ve stepped up—meeting the rising demand for 988 with timely, compassionate support by more than doubling our team. This year, we answered more calls, texts, and chats than ever before—responding to a nearly 45% increase in contacts since the launch of 988 and helping individuals find their strength and take the next step forward.

Every step forward is powered by the people behind our mission—our dedicated staff and clinicians, committed board, generous donors and funders, invaluable volunteers, and community partners. Your belief in equitable mental health care fuels our progress and inspires our team every day.

Together, we are building a future where mental health is a right, not a privilege—where care is grounded in compassion, rooted in community, and accessible for all.

Thank you for walking alongside us. We are proud of what we’ve accomplished together in 2024, and even more inspired by the possibilities ahead.

With gratitude,

Lyn Morris, LMFT

The Next Gen Council at the Suicide Prevention Center

We are proud to introduce our 2025 Next Gen Advisory Council members! This group of 17 passionate young professionals is dedicated to advancing Didi Hirsch’s mission and driving positive change in mental health and wellness across our community.

As ambassadors, council members focus on networking, fundraising, and advocacy, using their diverse backgrounds to strengthen our services. They actively engage in Didi Hirsch events and collaborate with board members and senior leadership.

In 2023, Didi Hirsch launched a 3-year strategic plan focused on expanding mental health services to address the growing youth mental health crisis. Members of the Next Gen Advisory Council play an integral role in our strategic plan by connecting us with new partners, raising awareness, and advocating for our work in fresh, impactful ways.

Our Impact

In 2024, Didi Hirsch supported 270,897 people – more than any other time in our history.

This included:

230,210
Crisis Lines and Specialized
Counseling Services

5,906

Client Demographics Snapshot

We serve people from all walks of life and cultural backgrounds:

We serve people at every stage of life:

We are able to reach all of these individuals thanks to our incredible team of 904 staff and volunteers.

MENTAL HEALTH AND SUBSTANCE USE SERVICES

Didi Hirsch provides whole-person care, ensuring clients have the tools and resources to thrive. In 2024, Didi Hirsch served 5,475 clients through our outpatient mental health and substance use programs.

Enhanced Care Management (ECM)

ECM is a statewide, free-of-charge Medi-Cal benefit that launched on January 1, 2022. ECM aims to provide a whole-person care approach that addresses the complex health and social needs of members enrolled in a Medi-Cal managed health care plan. In 2024, Didi Hirsch connected with 655 people and enrolled 230 clients into the ECM program.

Adult Services

All of the clients we serve through our outpatient program have mental health disorders, with the most common diagnoses being depression (27%), schizophrenia (21%), and Bipolar Disorder (12%). 80% of adult clients in our outpatient programs demonstrated positive recovery as well as improvement in their mental health concerns. Our whole-person care approach keeps clients out of the hospital and well-supported in an outpatient setting:

77% saw a reduction in hospitalization days for physical health reasons.

74% saw a reduction in hospitalization days for mental health reasons.

76% saw a reduction in emergency room visits for physical health reasons.

Substance Use Services

Part of our whole-person care approach includes supporting our clients with substance use treatment, employing a harm-reduction approach that allows clients to move at their own pace while they heal.

Percentage of clients who used nicotine reduced from 39% to 6%.

The percentage of clients who used alcohol to intoxication was reduced by 50% while in our outpatient program.

349 clients benefited from Medication for Addiction Treatment (MAT) to help them manage their addiction.

“The outpatient substance program at Didi Hirsch has been the foundation for my personal growth journey over the past three years. I am so grateful for my therapist and her ability to help me to navigate all of the challenges and opportunities that come up and for always making me feel supported and heard.”
— Substance Use Services client

Child and Family Services

Our Child and Family Program offers healing for whole communities, addressing the needs of our clients with a trauma-informed approach.

- Our Child and Family Program serves clients with:
- Depressive Disorder (31%)
 - Anxiety (20%)
 - Trauma Disorder (21%)

81% of youth served in our family outpatient programs self-reported significant improvement in their symptoms.

School-Based Programs

We served 653 clients through our school-based programs across 77 schools in Southern California.

Transitional-Age Youth

Our Third Place (OTP), located in Glendale, is a youth wellness center for individuals age 15-25. Created for youth by youth, OTP offers a broad range of services, including mental health and substance use treatment, life skills support, practical support like laundry and showers, and a sense of community through workshops and events.

Since opening in early 2024, the OTP team has reached out to 2,721 youth and community members, provided training to 82 youth, and supported 216 youth through direct services.

Who are we serving?

Of the youth who access our OTP services, 63% have some form of housing instability, and around 26% have a history in foster care. Also, 35% are unemployed and not in school.

“Seeing that I am able to make those connections, build trust, and can be a safe adult for a young person that I did not have growing up – the healing goes both ways.”

— Kris Eterea, Program Coordinator at Our Third Place

“Things have been really hard but coming here today and learning about all the ways you can help me reminds me that everything happens for a reason.” — OTP client

Residential Programs

Via Avanta

Opened in 1979, Via Avanta is a unique substance use treatment program for women that allows children and mothers to stay together through treatment, fostering a sense of community where all residents contribute to childcare.

- 36% of the women who reside at Via Avanta reported alcohol use at admission.
- 47% reported amphetamine use.
- 30% reported cannabis use.

In addition to receiving substance use support, Via Avanta clients are also enrolled in mental health services, with demonstrating improvements in their mental health symptoms.

77%

Excelsior House

Didi Hirsch provides short-term crisis residential treatment for adults experiencing a mental health crisis, often with co-occurring mental health and substance use disorders. This residence offer a safe place to focus on healing and recovery.

The median length of stay for clients is 17 days, but in that short period of time, 65% of clients demonstrated a reduction in symptom distress.

While only 19% came into the program with permanent stable housing, 77% left with a safe place to call home.

SUICIDE PREVENTION, COUNSELING AND SUPPORT GROUP SERVICES

Didi Hirsch is home to the first and most comprehensive suicide prevention center in the nation, and led the launch of 988 in the state of California. In addition to managing 988, we operate several other crisis lines, including Teen Line, and offer comprehensive suicide support services including individual and group counseling, training, and more.

988

Didi Hirsch staff answered 203,220 calls, chats, and texts via 988, more than 14,000 of which were on the Spanish line. Contacts on both the English and Spanish lines were the highest they’ve been since launching the program.

Why do people contact 988?

988 is available 24/7 for anyone in need of mental health support. While all counselors are trained to handle a crisis, including suicidal crisis, they are also ready to listen and provide non-judgmental support for a broad range of concerns

- 35% suicidal desire
- 45% express relationship concerns
- 45% express anxiety/stress
- 23% have a past suicidal ideation
- 26% loneliness
- 30% depression
- 15% substance use/addiction

70% of contacts with suicidal intent showed significant improvement by the end of the call.

97% of contacts were resolved without requiring emergency services.

Teen Line

Teen Line is a national peer-to-peer hotline created for teens, by teens. While it is headquartered at our Suicide Prevention Center in Los Angeles, the majority of calls, chats, and texts (72%) come from outside of California.

Teen Line answered 8,886 calls, texts and emails from youth.

Of these contacts, 98% of help-seeking youth found the conversation helpful, and the same amount said they would recommend Teen Line to a friend.

2x

The number of schools reached through our Teacher Facilitation Guide nearly doubled in 2024, to 288 schools, reaching more than 40,000 students!

Download our Teacher Facilitation Guide

Our Survivors of Suicide Attempt (SOSA) curriculum is respected worldwide. Since launching, the manual has been downloaded 3,265 times across 58 countries.

In 2024, 93% of those who sought individual counseling due to bereaving a loved one lost to suicide demonstrated significant improvement in their depressive symptoms.

“You’ve honestly been the most helpful and understanding person I’ve talked to on here. You know exactly what to ask and say during the conversation and I want to thank you for helping me so much and letting me tell you all this. I hope to connect with you here again sometime to be able to update you or to talk when I’m having a bad day again.”

Leading our field:

In 2024, Didi Hirsch staff published 4 articles in national scientific journals and presented at 20+ conferences and symposiums.

“Eighty percent of deaths by suicide are men, why? Boys learn early that their emotions are ‘too much.’ Teaching boys that their emotions matter isn’t just about mental health—it’s about building a future where men are healthier, happier, and more connected. The next generation needs us to redefine what strength looks like. And sometimes, that starts with a single tear.”

— Elan Javanfard, Senior Director of Whole Person Care on his presentation, “Teaching Our Boys to Cry”

A Shared Path to Healing

The wildfires that tore through Los Angeles left behind more than scorched landscapes, they unraveled lives. For thousands, the damage was not just physical, it took a deeply emotional toll.

In the wake of the devastation, Didi Hirsch stepped in with urgency and care—meeting the moment with free, trauma-informed mental health care for those impacted. Thanks to the support of generous donors and funding partners, we’ve served more than 4,000 people since the start of the recovery efforts. We’ve strived to provide compassionate care that honors each individual’s grief, strength, and need for stability.

Our staff, clinicians, and volunteers have been a constant presence—offering therapy, drop-in support for first responders, onsite crisis care at Disaster Recovery Centers (DRCs), and encouraging outreach to the 988 Suicide & Crisis Lifeline. This work is powered by deep community investment and a belief in long-term healing.

At one DRC in Altadena, a volunteer from a neighboring agency introduced us to a young woman who was visibly shaken. She and her husband had escaped the flames in darkness, narrowly avoiding disaster. Though their home was spared, the trauma from the whole ordeal left them completely at a loss. In the chaos, their car was broken into—essential medications and IDs stolen. With work equipment lost to the fire and living out of a single hotel room, their sense of safety had shattered.

She wasn’t just reeling from the fire. She was carrying grief from a recent loss, fear about the future, and exhaustion that ran deep. We didn’t rush to fix things. We sat with her. We listened.

And something shifted.

In the quiet space of being heard, she began to talk about hope—about a career milestone, about the possibility of starting counseling with us, about what might come next.

Stories like hers are why we do this work. Behind every number is a person doing their best. Fire may have ignited the crisis, but the need for healing goes so much deeper.

At Didi Hirsch, we’re walking alongside those impacted through the long journey of recovery. We continue to stand with our community, providing mental health care that centers humanity, honors resilience, and helps our neighbors find a way forward—one conversation, one session, one act of care at a time.

A Place to Call Home: How ECM Helped One Family Rebuild Stability

For nearly a decade, Kim and her three daughters cycled through shelters, transitional housing, and short-term stays with family. The instability took a toll—on their health, their relationships, and their sense of security. Most days were focused on survival.

By fall of 2024, their time at a local women’s shelter was ending, and they had nowhere left to go. One of Kim’s teenage daughters, Ava, had recently had a baby. Her older sister also became a mother that same year. The stress of caring for two babies while navigating homelessness left the family with few options.

“It was terrifying,” said Ava. “Being pregnant so young was scary. But being unhoused with an infant was even scarier. I was afraid they’d take my baby. Knowing I had people who cared about me made it less scary.”

Ava was receiving support through a youth mental health service when she was referred to our Enhanced Care Management (ECM) program—a Medi-Cal benefit that supports people with complex health and housing needs. Thalía, a Lead Care Manager, immediately began helping the family address their most urgent challenges.

“Thalía didn’t give up on us,” Kim said. “She sent in our housing application the same day we had to leave the shelter. We had no idea if we’d be approved—it felt like a longshot. But she stayed on top of it.”

Through ECM, the family was connected to an affordable housing opportunity and placed on a waitlist. While they waited, Thalía linked them with community programs that provided essentials like diapers, baby formula, and food—critical support as they moved between hotels and friends’ homes.

Kim stretched every dollar trying to keep her daughters and grandchildren safe. “My savings went to the hotel,” she said. “When that ran out, I would sleep on the streets while my girls stayed with friends. I just didn’t want them going back to a shelter. I didn’t want that for the babies.”

In January 2025, they got the call—they’d been approved for housing. Out of everyone on the waitlist, only two families were selected, and they were one of them.

“I didn’t believe it at first. Didi Hirsch was the only organization that came through. I thought I was never going to have a place, but they never gave up on us.”

— Kim, mother of Ava, ECM program client

“I didn’t believe it at first,” Kim said. “Didi Hirsch was the only organization that came through. I thought I was never going to have a place, but they never gave up on us.”

Today, the family is settling into their new apartment—a clean, safe space with enough room for everyone. Each of the girls has their own room. The little ones can play freely. They share meals together. They sleep under the same roof.

“It’s nice to have a clean place for the babies to run around,” Kim said. “I love being able to eat at the dinner table with all my kids. It brings stability for my grandkids.”

Her daughter, Ava, agrees, “It’s important for the babies to have stability and a good environment to grow up in.”

Even after securing housing, the ECM team remained by their side. They’ve helped furnish the apartment and continue to connect the family with services that support their stability and well-being.

“ECM is about walking with people through hard moments, but the strength and resilience is theirs,” said Nicole Reyes, the Lead Care Manager who now supports the family. “This family kept showing up, kept doing what needed to be done, even when it was hard. We were just there to help clear the path.”

Their journey isn’t over, but for the first time in years, there’s space to breathe, to plan, to grow. They’ve grown from a place of fear and uncertainty to one of stability and hope.

In 2024 through our ECM program, we reached 655 individuals across Greater Los Angeles, enrolling 230 of them.

Major Grant Awards

Didi Hirsch receives critical funding from many outstanding national, regional and local agencies and organizations. Their support helps us provide high quality mental health, substance use, and suicide prevention services throughout the community.

General Operations and Organizational Capacity Building

- The Ahmanson Foundation ($150,000): Enables the development of a new agency website and internal staff intranet, as well as the design and installation of new physical signage at several agency sites.
- Cedars-Sinai ($100,000): Supports improving clients’ access to care and enhancing workforce wellbeing and efficiency via implementation of Eleos Scribe AI notetaking technology.
- Good Hope Medical Foundation ($10,000): Funds essential operating costs associated with the provision of mental health, substance use, and suicide prevention services.
- The Ralph M. Parsons Foundation ($75,000): Supports the general costs of providing mental health and substance use services in Los Angeles County.

Mental Health

- Cedars-Sinai Community Connect Network Pilot ($200,000): Improves coordination of access to mental health services for low-income community members.
- Joan Leidy Foundation ($25,000): Funds youth services across the agency such as support groups, art therapy, and our annual YouthFest.
- Las Candelas ($12,000): Supports teen programs at the Glendale site, including Our Third Place, a Didi Hirsch program for transition-age youth (TAY) ages 15-25, providing mental health, housing assistance, and other supportive services that help young people successfully transition into adulthood.
- Young Adults Forward Fund ($1,000,000): Funds the expansion of Our Third Place, a comprehensive program for transition-age youth (TAY), ages 15-25, offering the resources they need to embark on positive journeys into adulthood including mental health support, housing assistance and other supportive services.

We are also funded by:

- California Department of Health Care Services / Advocates for Human Potential, Inc – State 988 Crisis Line Services
- City of Los Angeles Police Department – 911 Diversion Program
- FEMA National Board – Emergency Food and Shelter Program
- Los Angeles County Department of Health Services
- Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health
- Los Angeles Department of Public Health
- Orange County Health Care Agency
- SAMHSA/Riverside San Bernadino County Indian Health – 988 Tribal Response Program
- SAMHSA/Vibrant Emotional Health – National 988 Crisis Line Services

Substance Use

- Saint John’s Health Center Foundation Community Impact Fund ($55,000): Supports substance use outreach through the creation and distribution of harm reduction kits and bilingual (Spanish/English) educational videos.
- The Thomas and Dorothy Leavey Foundation ($10,000): Provides support for the Via Avanta program, which provides substance use and mental health support for women.

Suicide Prevention and Teen Line

- Anthony Pritzker Family Foundation ($79,250): Supports the Teen Line peer-to-peer hotline, including its vital suicide prevention, mental health training, and outreach services.
- Born this Way Foundation ($25,000): Provides support for Teen Line’s work to provide hope, support, and resources to any teen who is struggling through a hotline staffed by highly trained, compassionate teen listeners.
- The Rare Impact Fund, a project of the Hopewell Fund ($300,000): Supports the development and dissemination of suicide awareness and prevention trainings for teens, adults, and youth service providers (two-year grant).
- The Jay & Rose Phillips Family Foundation of Minnesota ($45,000): Funds the Didi Hirsch suicide prevention and support services, including our Survivors of Suicide Attempts work and other support groups.
- L.L. Foundation for Youth ($50,000): Supports Teen Line’s Career Development initiative, which trains high school students from underrepresented backgrounds to serve as mental health ambassadors in their communities while volunteering on the hotline.
- TOMS ($100,000): Supports the Didi Hirsch 24/7 crisis lines, suicide-specific therapy, and training and outreach initiatives.

Ways to Give

Direct Gifts Online
DidiHirsch.org/DonateNow

Mail Us a Check
Please mail all checks to:

Didi Hirsch Mental Health Services
ATTN: Robin Hyerstay
4760 S. Sepulveda Blvd.
Culver City, CA 90230

Donor Advised Funds (DAF)

You can direct support to Didi Hirsch through a donor-advised fund. We’re a nonprofit 501(c)3, and our tax ID number is 95-1816023. You can also consider naming “Didi Hirsch Psychiatric Service” (our legal name) as a remainder beneficiary of your donor-advised fund. Please let us know if you do.

“IRA Rollover” Gifts (QCD)

The Protecting Americans from Tax Hikes (PATH) Act of 2015 made permanent the qualified charitable distribution (QCD) transfer provision, which is popularly known as the IRA charitable rollover.

Helpful Information for Your QCD:

Legal name: Didi Hirsch Psychiatric Service
Mailing address: 4760 S. Sepulveda Blvd., Culver City, CA 90230
Federal Tax ID number: 95-1816023

How It Works

1. If you are 70½ years or older, you can instruct your IRA administrator to make a direct transfer to one or more charitable organizations.
2. Your IRA administrator will make the transfer per your direction.

Benefits of the IRA Charitable Rollover:

- The gift is very simple to arrange.
- The amount transferred from an IRA to charity is not added to taxable income.
- The amount you transfer will count towards your mandatory distribution if you have attained the age when required distributions begin. That age, which had been 72, was raised to 73 for those who become 72 between January 1, 2023, and December 31, 2032, and 75 for those who reach 74 after December 31, 2032.
- The rollover gift can be outright (charity can use it now), or it can be for a life-income plan (pays income to the donor and/or spouse).
- You support the programs that are important to you.
